Hi! My name is Nayah Elizabeth Ngong.

I am delighted to join the learning community at Hayama International School. I am from Cameroon and hold a Management degree from the University of Bamenda. I have taught both kindergarten and junior high, but I am especially passionate about supporting upper elementary and high school students as they grow academically and personally.

I believe every child has unique potential. My aim is to help students recognize their strengths, build confidence, and develop a lasting love for learning. I encourage them to think critically, express themselves with clarity, and see challenges as chances to grow.

Families often describe my teaching as motivating. I strive to create a classroom that is supportive, stimulating, and focused not only on academics but also on character, leadership, and global awareness. Beyond the classroom, I enjoy singing, dancing, and swimming—hobbies that bring energy and creativity to my teaching.

I look forward to working with both students and parents, and to helping each child feel inspired, confident, and ready for the future.

Hello

JHS SCHOOL NEWSLETTER

September 2025

This term, Julia has been studying key math concepts, including the area of triangles, fractions, and general math revision. In English, we have been exploring books that spark Julia's interest, followed by activities where she retells the story in her own words, sketches a scene, and learns new vocabulary. Through these activities, we are not only building academic skills but also taking the time to understand each other better and work together in studying and researching areas of personal interest.
