Classroom UPDATE

November

28th

Hello everyone,

I hope you are all in good health and enjoying the start of the winter season.

★ Holiday Event Preparations

The holiday season is quickly approaching, and our Pre-K students are overflowing with excitement as we prepare for our upcoming Holiday Event. Each day, the children engage in dance and singing practice with incredible enthusiasm. It has been a joy to watch them grow more confident, coordinated, and expressive with every rehearsal. Their improvement is evident—not only in their movements and voices but also in their teamwork and focus. They are truly looking forward to sharing their performance with you, and we are equally delighted and proud to showcase their hard work and joyful spirit.

❄ Winter Health Reminder

As we transition into the colder months, we kindly ask for your continued support in keeping the children warm and healthy. Please ensure your child comes to school dressed appropriately for the weather, including a warm coat or jacket and any additional layers needed for chilly mornings. During this season, many children are more vulnerable to colds and seasonal illnesses, so taking extra precautions will help us maintain a safe, comfortable, and healthy learning environment for all. We deeply appreciate your cooperation and care as we work together to support the well-being of every student.

Alphabet and Language Arts

This week, the children have shown wonderful progress in both their worksheets and daily classroom activities! Each morning begins with name-tracing during attendance, and it has been exciting to see how their writing becomes neater and more confident each day. Along with this, they continue practicing tracing and writing the alphabet, strengthening their fine motor skills and early literacy development.

We also introduced the letters U and V, and to make learning enjoyable, we teamed up with the B4 class for a fun review activity. Through interactive games and lively songs, the children practiced recognizing letters and their sounds while learning alongside their friends.

In addition to academic work, we have been focusing on building their communication and social skills. The children are practicing simple conversational phrases both in class and during playtime. They are also learning to use polite expressions such as "please," "thank you," and appropriate greetings. It is wonderful to see them applying these phrases naturally throughout the day, showing growth not only in their language skills but also in kindness and respect toward others.

Number and Counting Practice

Over the past two weeks, our young mathematicians have been exploring the number 11 while also reviewing numbers 8, 9, and 10. They have been practicing how to trace and form each digit, helping them build confidence, recognition, and fine motor control. Through a variety of hands-on activities, the children eagerly identify numbers by sight and enjoy answering questions such as, "What number is this?"

We are also placing special focus on strengthening their counting skills and improving their ability to write numbers correctly. By practicing counting, tracing, and understanding number figures, the students are steadily developing a stronger foundation in early numeracy.

Over the past two weeks, our little learners have been exploring the exciting world of fall shapes, fruits, and vegetables while practicing vocabulary and asking for shapes, which supports their confidence, social skills, and language development. They enjoyed colorful worksheets and hands-on games that encouraged them to identify shapes, match numbers, and explore different colors. Throughout these activities, the children practiced sharing, teamwork, and helping one another, making each lesson both fun and social.

To make learning even more engaging, we incorporated lively and catchy songs such as "I Like to Draw" by Super Simple, "Dance with Shapes" by Singing Walrus, and "I'm a Shape" from Sing and Learn. With music, movement, and plenty of giggles, the children remained actively engaged and energized, eagerly discovering new shapes while having a wonderful time in the classroom.

Arts and Crafts

Over the past two weeks, our little artists have been buzzing with creativity! They explored the letters U for Umbrella and V for Volcano through fun and engaging crafts. One highlight was creating Thanksgiving baskets, also called cornucopias, where the children selected fruits and vegetables and used them for stamping, as well as cutting and pasting paper to make colorful, textured masterpieces.

These hands-on activities not only reinforced letter recognition but also helped strengthen fine motor skills, foster creativity, and build confidence. The classroom was full of laughter, smiles, and proud "Look what I made!" moments, making each day a joyful celebration of learning and artistic expression.
